Negotiations Day 6 Update

---

Negotiations wrapped up today with the company worrying more about the noise in the shop and marching rather than addressing our demands around Job Security! Meanwhile, supervision was busy crying and complaining about our members voicing their displeasure with what is happening at the table. With that said, keep up the good work!! They are still ignoring our demands for Job security by rejecting our proposals. We are back at the table for the final week of negotiations starting Monday morning. Keep an eye out for strike picket assignments, voting details and directions. We received confirmation about AWW schedules on the day of our ratification vote please see your supervisor for info.
